

The AIS 2012 Conference Proposal Review Committee met to evaluate proposals received for the 34th Annual Conference. I am delighted to report that your proposal, Approaches to Teaching Interdisciplinarity – Interdisciplinary Research: Theory and Process, was accepted.

We received proposals representing 5 countries and 29 states involving over 100 presenters. We have generally scheduled 4 parallel sessions each of either 60 minutes or 75 minutes depending on the number of presenters in the session. You have requested a session for 75 Minutes. We ask that you leave 10 – 15 minutes at the end of your session for questions and discussions. The conference schedule will be posted on the website in early June; however your session is scheduled for Saturday, October 13th at 2:45pm - 4:00pm. Below is the abstract that will be published in the conference program:

The interdisciplinary research process is taught in three different kinds of undergraduate courses: introductory, research methods, and capstone. Allen Repko's Interdisciplinary Research: Process and Theory provides a comprehensive approach that is applicable in all three settings. Panelists will share their innovative and creative adaptations of the book to these different levels. The session will emphasize changes as a result of the 2011 expanded 2nd edition.

Congratulations on having your presentation/proposal accepted, and we look forward to seeing you in Rochester in October 2012. Please register for the conference as soon as possible through the conference website, and reserve your room at the conference hotel. Additional communication with more details will follow during the summer and as the conference approaches.

If you are the contact person for a group, or panel proposal, please communicate this acceptance to the other presenters and confirm your acceptance and provide correct information about all presenters' institutional affiliation by clicking here. You will need to indicate your session ID, 56, in the form.

Scott L. Crabill, Ph.D.
Conference Planner